Fahd briefs cabinet Reagan's reply raises hopes

ing the Palestinians and their cause and creating more Palestinians and Lebanese refugees.

The King said that Israel planned to finish off the Palestinians but this will never succeed because the Palestinians have a just and legitimate cause which cannot be stifled. The justice of their cause has been recognized worldwide, he added.

The King appealed for a unified Arab stand specially in these delicate circumstances and at the dangerous juncture which ought to be fully appreciated. This is not the item for slanging matches and mutual recriminations, he said.

Dr. Yamani said the council also reviewed the work of the GCC foreign ministers conference in Taif and the report by Ahmad Zaki Yamani, minister of petroleum and mineral affairs about the recent OPEC meeting in Vienna recently.

GCC resents U.S. action

TAIF, July 13 (SPA) — The six-nation Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) has strongly condemned the United States for vetoing a U.N. resolution that would have taken deterrent measures against Israel for its invasion of Lebanon.

In a statement at the end of a two-day meeting here Tuesday morning, the foreign ministers said the veto was a violation of the principles of the U.N. Charter and the legitimate rights of the Arabs.

The council included the representatives of the Kingdom, Kuwait, UAE, Qatar, Oman and Bahrain. It reaffirmed its support for efforts being made to force Israel to withdraw from Lebanon and said that it was working with other Arab and friendly states to bring about this withdrawal. (Details — P.3)

Ethiopian forces 'invade' Somalia Dissidents claim capturing towns

JEDDAH, July 13 (SPA) The Somali government has called on all Arab and Muslim states to condemn the Ethiopian invasion of its territory with the support of the Warsaw Pact countries.

In a press statement issued here Tuesday, the Somali Embassy said the attack has penetrated a number of regions on the common frontiers. So far 200 Ethiopian military personnel have been killed for the loss of 24 Somalis.

The statement said the Ethiopian forces are being supported by Soviet, East German and Cuban troops who aim at achieving a new strategic situation in the Horn of Africa.

According to reports from Nairobi, a Somali rebel group, in a broadcast from the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa, claimed Tuesday to have captured the Somali border towns of Balambale and Galgob and killed 310 Somali soldiers.

Somali President Muhammad Siad Barre said late Sunday that Ethiopian and "foreign interventionist" troops invaded the two towns and that fighting continued there. His regime has appealed for American military and political assistance.

The Ethiopian Embassy in Nairobi denied its country's forces invaded Somalia, describing the clashes as "purely and simply an internal matter" between Somalis. The broadcast by the rebel Somali Democratic Salvation Front also denied that any forces other than its own fighters were involved in the attacks. It called on outside powers — an apparent reference to the United States and its allies — not to interfere in the domestic affairs of Somalia.

During the past four days, the front claimed its fighters gained control of Galgob by destroying four Somali army units and disarming another that surrendered, handing over large amounts of equipment and ammunition. Galgob, between the Ethiopian border and Galkayo, the capital of Mudug region, is about 600 kms in the northeast of Mogadishu.

It went on to say that its fighters shot down two Somali MiG-19 jetfighters and destroyed two other warplanes on the ground in a separate incident at Galkayo's air installation.

The broadcast monitored in Nairobi said that the front now controlled Balambale and its vicinity, but did not indicate when the area was taken. Balambale is located about 320 kms northeast of the Somali capital, Mogadishu.

No independent confirmation of the front's claim was available in Nairobi. The insurgent organization is composed mainly of Marerten clansmen who held political sway in Somalia before the 1969 military coup which brought Siad Barre to power.

Meanwhile, Somalia ordered its citizens to be ready to fight for their country after a series of Ethiopian attacks on territory in the past 10 days. Hundreds of thousands of Somalis chanting "give us guns," demonstrated in the Somali capital Monday.

President Barre sent a message to Kenyan President Daniel Arap Moi, current chairman of the Organization of African Unity (OAU) protesting against the incursions.

In Washington, a State Department official said the United States is weighing the request for emergency military assistance from Somalia. The department had no comment on the aid request Monday night, saying only it was "very concerned" by reports of fighting.

The appeal for aid was disclosed by Somali Embassy counselor Ahmad S. Muhammad, who told a news conference Monday the fighting has claimed more than 1,200 casualties, including 465 dead. He said Somali Ambassador Muhammad Haji Nur discussed the situation Monday with undersecretary of state for political affairs Lawrence Eagleburger.

King receives Jordan letter

TAIF, July 13 (SPA) — King Fahd received a message from Jordan's King Hussein here Tuesday. It was delivered by Foreign Minister Marwan Al Qassem.

The meeting was attended by Crown Prince Abdullah, Defense Minister and Second Deputy Premier Prince Sultan and Foreign Minister Prince Saud Al Faisal.

America seeks more time for Lebanon accord

LONDON, July 13 (Agencies) — The United States has come on Israel to allow more time for its Middle East negotiator, Philip Habib, to get an agreement on the evacuation of Palestinian commandos from West Beirut, the British Broadcasting Corp. reported Tuesday.

The request was made by U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger who spoke of fear of a "massacre" in the city if Israeli forces seek a military solution, according to the report on BBC world service by correspondent John Wallach of Heatstnewspapers.

Wallach said: "The United States is increasingly frustrated by the complexities of achieving a final PLO withdrawal from Lebanon." Part of the problem is that Habib has had to devote so much time to restoring the ceasefire that he has been unable to concentrate on the larger, more important issues.

Wallach, Monday showed, signs of exasperation with both sides. He told me he could not understand why the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) is insisting on going overland from Beirut to Damascus, a route through the Bekaa Valley that would expose them to Israeli gunners for a large part of the trip.

Displaying similar impatience with the Israelis, Weinberger said they had not agreed to withdraw even a centimeter from the highway that links Beirut to the Syrian capital, Wallach reported.

"As far as the Americans are concerned, they still believe that evacuation is the safest and most efficient way out," the correspondent said.

The report quoted Weinberger as saying that "our forces are ready, but it's going to take Habib at least another 10 days to complete the mission," Wallach said that Weinberger added in a veiled warning to the Israelis: "Everybody is very worried about the possibility of some sort of massacre taking place in West Beirut."

Shultz committed to Israel's security

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — George P. Shultz told the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday that if confirmed as secretary of state, he will seek stronger ties with Arab states but maintain the U.S. commitment to the security of Israel.

Shultz said he will sever all connections with the Bechtel Group Inc., a worldwide engineering firm with large Arab contracts.

In an opening statement at a hearing on his nomination to succeed Alexander M. Haig, who resigned over unexplained policy differences within President Ronald Reagan's administration, Shultz also pledged to work with Israel toward a comprehensive Middle East peace. He said representatives of the Palestinian people should be involved in the negotiations.

"The challenge of the negotiations in which the United States is, and during my tenure, will remain a full partner, is to trans-questions. I see only one possible answer: None."

Shultz said he had submitted his resignation effective when he is confirmed, as president of Bechtel and an officer of some of its subsidiaries. He is also selling his Bechtel stock and said he would disqualify himself from any decision affecting the worldwide engineering firm. "I feel privileged to have played a part in Bechtel's activities," he told the committee.

Turning to the turmoil touched off by the Israeli invasion of Lebanon, Shultz said it made clear that "the legitimate needs and problems of the Palestinian people must be addressed and resolved — urgently and in all their dimensions."

"The challenge of the negotiations in which the United States is, and during my tenure, will remain a full partner, is to trans-

questions. I see only one possible answer: None."

Shultz also said that "beyond the issues of the moment, the importance to our own security of wide and ever-strengthening ties with the Arabs is manifest." It is with them, as well as Israel that we will be able to bring peace to the Middle East," he said.

He added, however, that no one should "dispute the depth and durability of America's commitment to the security of Israel or our readiness to assure that Israel has the necessary means to defend herself. I share in this deep and enduring commitment."

Qasim power project to reach 350 villages

JEDDAH, July 13 — The Qasim central electricity project, for which 80 percent of the work has been commissioned, will extend power to 350 towns and villages in the area, officials reported.

Al-Jazirah quoted officials of the General Electricity Corporation as saying that the project will cost about SR500 million. The project is one of the general electricity corporation's major underway. About 17 contractors of several national and international companies are currently engaged in the project with a work force of 2,500 people. The project also will extend to adjacent areas near Qasim like Zilfi, Sojer and Nafif.

Ali Al-Barrak, administration manager for the Qasim Consolidated Electricity Company, said the project will have several turbine generating stations with a total output of 600,000 kilowatts. The nine stations, with a capacity of 66,000 kilowatts each, will be completed within 26 months from now. Work on the stations began 10 months ago.

The first of these stations will begin operating by next month. Barrak was quoted as saying.

GCC backs 6-member committee on Lebanon

TAIF, July 13 (Agencies) — Support of efforts being presently taken by the six-nation Arab League Committee to achieve total Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon was voiced by the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC). During meetings here Tuesday, GCC ministers strongly criticized the United States for vetoing a United Nations resolution that would have taken deterrent measures against Israel for its invasion of Lebanon.

The statement said the council members were working with "Arab brothers" on regional and international levels to achieve the withdrawal of Zionist invading troops from Lebanon, and come up with a Lebanese-Palestinian position that would preserve the Palestinian presence and realize reconciliation between them.

It said such an achievement would give the opportunity to the Arab nation to deal with the various aspects of the Palestinian cause aimed at reaching a just and comprehensive peace ensuring stability in the area away from developments that would allow foreign intervention.

The statement said the continuation of the Israeli occupation of Lebanon would lead to an explosion of the situation in the region thus endangering world peace.

Denouncing the barbaric Zionist invasion of Lebanese territories, the six-nation council reaffirmed its support to the Lebanese and Palestinian peoples.

"Confronting the Zionist invasion and lifting the siege of West Beirut and the Palestinian resistance was an Arab, Islamic and international responsibility," the statement said.

The council called upon the Arab and Islamic nations to unify their ranks and mobilize their potentials in support of the Lebanese and Palestinian brothers to prevent the Zionist entity from implementing its schemes in Lebanon.

The council also reviewed the latest developments of the Iraq-Iran war and stressed it was maintaining its genuine efforts through several Islamic, Arab and international channels to reach a settlement that would bring an end to the conflict which it said only benefits the Zionist entity and other enemies of Arabs and Muslims.

It expressed its appreciation to the position of Iraq by withdrawing its troops from Iranian territories to international borders and its readiness to solve the problem through diplomatic negotiations.

international security seminar at Harvard University, estimated world oil prices would more than double before the end of this century. The result could be "a test of the American system on a scale matched only in this century by that of the great depression," he told a press conference.

Yergin said Reagan's banning of the use of U.S. equipment on a proposed pipeline carrying Soviet gas to Western Europe was "a blunder of the first order." "This action is an example of the spirit of energy isolationism in this administration," he said, also pointing to government cutbacks in spending on programs to develop alternative energy sources.

President Reagan "was trying to turn the clock back to the 1950's," when the world appeared to have an unending energy supply. "The flashpoint of a (oil) crisis will almost certainly occur before the end of this decade unless major changes are made in present (U.S.) policies," Yergin said at the conference, called to launch a book Global Insecurity of which he is co-author.

for the faithful implementation of the resolution adopted today," he declared, adding that negotiations could achieve a fair and lasting settlement of the differences between the two nations.

In Tehran, Iranian Prime Minister Hossein Musavi has rejected the Security Council proposal for U.N. observers to confirm the ceasefire. The Iranian radio said Musavi called the resolution a "vote of confidence (by) the United States and the Soviet Union in Saddam Hussein."

Unsuccessful mediation attempts have been made, almost since the war erupted in September 1980, by U.N. special emissary Olof Palme, a former Swedish prime minister and by delegations from the nonaligned movement and the Organization of Islamic Conference (OIC) to end the conflict. The council also requested all states to refrain from actions that could contribute to the continuation of the conflict.

In London, diplomats said Monday that Iran's army is poised to invade Iraq and only the timing of a political decision by Tehran may be holding back the attack. The diplomats, quoting intelligence reports reaching Western capitals, said the Iranians had massed "a large number of divisions" on the southern Gulf waterfront and now threatened the Iraqi port of Basra.

Iranian religious and political leaders have been campaigning for the past two weeks for an invasion of Iraq to force the government of President Saddam Hussein to pay reparations for the war.

Chirac

ment lost four by-elections in January and its support in partial regional elections slipped dramatically last March in its first tests at the polls since the Socialists' overwhelming national victory last summer.

Political sources said Mitterrand was seeking some way to isolate the political threat from Chirac. But the decision to attack him over the status of Paris was ill-prepared. Four ministers knew nothing of the plan when they sat down at the cabinet meeting at which it was discussed in outline on June 30, the sources added.

Chirac announced a campaign to fight the decision by all legal means and will hold a city referendum in the autumn when full details of the government's plans are published. He was elected Paris mayor by universal suffrage in 1977 under rules approved in 1975 when he was prime minister to the then President Giscard d'Estaing.

"An administration in complete disarray, becoming more extreme as it senses popular support slipping away and a defeat approaching, is seeking to punish the people of Paris because it thinks they might vote the wrong way," he told a news conference.

Ministers protested that they only wanted to bring Paris closer to its rulers, but the government now seems to have softened its proposals following the protests.

Opposes U.S. role in Lebanon

Habash calls for U.N. solution in Beirut

BEIRUT, July 13 (AP) — George Habash, leader of the militant wing of the Palestine Liberation Organization, has ruled out any U.S. participation in a Lebanon peace force, saying a solution of the crisis in Israeli-encircled Beirut should be through the United Nations.

In an interview with the Associated Press Monday conducted in a small three-room apartment in the Muslim sector of the capital, Habash also defiantly rejected Israeli demands for the complete withdrawal of the Palestinian commando forces from the whole of Lebanon.

"We are not leaving Lebanon and will continue fighting not only from Lebanon but from Syria, Egypt and Jordan, not by taking permission from anyone but by forcing our military presence in all the countries that surround Palestine," said Habash, head of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP).

The continuing presence of U.S. presidential envoy Philip Habib in Beirut "will escalate the crisis," Habash insisted. "It is very difficult for him (Habib) to succeed because he is part of the enemy."

"The United States is part of the Israeli aggression. That is why we will not accept its presence in the multinational peace force. We don't want to see them," he said.

Habash, a 56-year-old pediatrician educated at the American University in Beirut, spoke slowly in English as he outlined the PLO's three main demands:

— Israeli forces should withdraw from Beirut.

— The PLO would withdraw to its camps after an Israeli pullback.

— The PLO would then negotiate its future presence in Lebanon with the government while there was a ceasefire.

"If we want a real solution for the Beirut crisis it should be through the United Nations," added Habash.

"Personally, I think there will be no agreement or serious discussion between us and the Lebanese government before the Israeli withdrawal from the Beirut area," said Habash, whose PFLP is the largest militant faction in the PLO and second in size to Yasir Arafat's own Fatah organization.

"Then, we will start free discussions," he added.

In the meantime, Habash stressed, "we have no other choice but to continue our military activity."

Mubarak, Numeiri review Lebanon

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt July 13 (R) — President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt and Jaafar Numeiri of Sudan had talks in Alexandria Monday on the Lebanese crisis and other Middle East issues. Officials said President Mubarak informed the Sudanese leader of Egypt's efforts to reach a settlement in Lebanon which would safeguard the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people.

Habre, Kamougue to negotiate rift

LIBREVILLE, Gabon, July 13 (AP) — Hissene Habre, whose month-old administration in Chad is trying to put together national reconciliation, and Col. Abdoulaye Kamougue, leader of the southern forces, have agreed to negotiate their differences.

"All I can tell you at this time is that we have just taken a big step toward a definitive peace in Chad," Habre told reporters after returning to home Monday afternoon from negotiations here.

Hassan favors mini-summit to 'safeguard' OAU's unity

RABAT, July 13 (R) — King Hassan of Morocco favors a mini-summit of seven African heads of state to solve the current crisis in the Organization of African Unity (OAU), it has been officially announced here.

Morocco and a number of other African states have threatened to boycott next month's OAU summit in Tripoli, Libya, if the Saharan Arab Democratic Republic (SADR), proclaimed by Polisario guerrillas fighting Morocco for the Western Sahara, takes part.

However, Ibrahim Hakim, "foreign minister" of the SADR which was admitted to the OAU last February, told reporters on a visit to Mali Monday that SADR would attend the summit. Moreover, he said there was no question of holding a mini-summit before the Tripoli session.

King Hassan, in a message to OAU Chairman President Daniel Arap Moi of Kenya, said the mini-summit could "safeguard the unity of our continent and protect our organization from division."

Such a meeting would assemble Kenya, Nigeria, Mali, Sierra Leone, Guinea, Tanzania and Sudan — the members of a committee set up by the last OAU summit to arrange a ceasefire and organize a referendum in the Kudsar.

Birds used for China's pest control

By Zhang Hua

PEKING. (Depthnews) — Ornithologists are perhaps some of Communist China's busiest people as much research is being done to encourage birds to play an increasingly important role in forest conservation.

An experiment using these flying creatures for pest control is under way in the extensive pine woods of Chuxian prefecture, a locality in Anhui province that is often threatened by pine moth infestation.

Eye-catching are numerous small green wooden boxes hung on tree branches as nesting sites. "Apart from finding out the species of birds in this area and the rate of occupancy of the boxes, we also intend to test the ability of different birds for insect killing," says Zhou Shie, a council member of the Chinese Society of Ornithology and head of the research team.

Birds like to nest in boxes facing the south and east, says Zhou, and most of the occupants are those who like to nest in holes and rock cleavages.

Chuxian is one of the country's three experimental centers for integrated pine moth pest management. The application of parasitic wasps and hotrots (parasitic fungi), together with insecticides, has been successful, according to the center. However, insecticides, though effective, have several disadvantages. They are costly, pollute the environment and kill natural enemies of the moth along with this pest. Succeeding generations of pine moths also develop resistance to the pesticide.

Research shows, however, that moths are not a problem in forests where pines and broad-leaved trees grow. The trees, in fact, provide habitat for the pest's natural insect enemies and moth-eating birds. Interplanting these two types of trees is thus another approach to curbing the moth population in infested areas.

"We hope to employ pure biological means in the future, preferably mainly birds as they are both safe and economical," says Shao Shuguang, vice director of the local forestry bureau. For this purpose, Zhou and his team have been specially invited to give help.

Shao explains that the work at Chuxian is to ensure that moth pests in pure pine woods can be controlled by birds in this way. In places where birds are scarce, other practices can be put to use. In Rizhao, Shandong province, for example, Shao points to the azure-winged magpies domesticated in a big cage where a mini habitat is provided — trees, water and insects. The bird is conditioned to find and kill moths upon the sound of a whistle. A trained bird has been found reliable when taken to forests miles away.

Zhou has been involved in this type of research for years in various parts of the country. From his work in Mount Maojia, Jiangsu province, he found that 27 species of birds in that area are pine-moth eaters. In the stomachs of five cuckoos he found a total of 85 six-year-old pine moths. Black-naped orioles and azure-winged magpies were also among the species Zhou studied there.

Zhou had watched a pair of white-faced tits which, in turn, fed their seven young 305 times in a single day, during which the whole family consumed 400 pine moths or an estimated total of 6,400 for the whole nursing period of 16 days. The body weight of the young birds was tripled in seven days.

There have been many reports of success in using birds for pest control. In Changli of Hebei province, researchers of the Society of Zoology have found 53 species of birds capable of killing a kind of apple borer with the pied woodpecker among its strongest enemies.

Known as the "surgeon of the forest," this woodpecker is an effective means of control of longicorns, which often threaten areas in the province. These pests, hiding help inside tree trunks, are vulnerable only to the pied woodpecker, with its strong beak and long multi-hooked tongue.

People in Junhe lumber camp of Pingyi county started enticing these woodpeckers in 1965 by hanging logs on the trunks of white poplar trees. Two pairs came to nest at a result and, after three winters, the number of longicorn larvae dropped from 80 to 0.8 per 100 trees, over an afforested area of 66 hectares.

Zhou investigated this area in 1978, and the resident pied woodpeckers had since increased to 26 pairs. He was told that the pest population had been well under control for more than a decade without costing a cent.

ADVICE FOR CANKER SORE PATIENTS

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J.

Steinrohn

M.D., F.A.C.P.

Dear Dr. Steinrohn: I suffer so much from recurring bouts of canker sores. I've tried everything my doctor has suggested, and everything I've read about and treatments my friends have suggested. But, they keep coming. At times, so discouraging, because the pain prevents me from eating. Is there anything you can suggest that will either prevent canker sores or make them more bearable? — Mrs. B.

Dear Mrs. B.: People write about their favorite remedies. Unfortunately, what seems to help one doesn't always help another.

Nevertheless, I welcome these suggestions because, occasionally, they bring comfort to canker sore sufferers. The medical name for these pestiferous sores is aphthous stomatitis.

In many patients, I have found there is a history of having injured the inner membrane lining of the mouth. Such patients should try to avoid further local injury. One way is not to use hard-bristled toothbrushes. Also, avoid hard, sharp foods or other objects that might cut or scrape inside the mouth.

Dr. Wray and colleagues at Western Infirmary of Glasgow, Scotland have reported that nutritional deficiencies may produce canker sores. For example, deficiencies of iron or vitamin B 12. In following 39 patients for at least six months to assess their treatment, 23 patients showed a remission of ulcers, 2 improved and 5 were not helped.

MEDICALETTE

(Replies to and from readers):

For Mrs. Y.: Blood pressure readings taken in a doctor's office may be much higher than those taken at home. For this reason, I suggest that you follow your doctor's suggestion and buy a machine (sphygmomanometer) to keep in your home. Comparing your blood pressure readings with those taken in his office, he can better estimate which antihypertensive drugs to prescribe for your hypertension.

For Mrs. H.: Better follow your doctor's recommendations about immunization against rubella (German measles). Although it appears to be vanishing as a childhood disease, adults and adolescents are still susceptible to rubella. This can cause a problem for those most vulnerable to the disease — unborn babies. Although mild in adults and children, the rubella virus can cause severe abnormalities in a developing fetus: heart defects, cataracts, deafness, mental retardation.

For Mr. G.: Your wife feels blue? If it's a shallow depression, lasting only a few hours or days due to some disappointment or unhappiness, no treatment is required. With the help of family and friends getting her involved in pleasurable activities, she will get over it.

However, if it's a deep depression, lasting for weeks or months, and interferes with her normal routine, better not let it go undiagnosed or untreated. Especially, if she complains of loss of energy and inability to concentrate, can't sleep at night — and has suicidal thoughts. Now, not tomorrow, is the time for treatment. Psychotherapy may be needed. Also, such antidepressants as tricyclic drugs and/or monoamine oxidase inhibitors. "Blues" comes in various shades. Mr. G.

'A republic of nincompoops'

"Ladies and gentlemen," said the president of NBC, "two weeks ago I called the first of these unprecedented meetings of media leaders. As I said then, 'If we don't take joint action we will soon become a republic of nincompoops.'

"And for the sake of people who are here, last time," said a 20th publisher, "I would like to repeat what I said: 'I am, we are already a republic of nincompoops, we are a book publisher. Our sales are down, except for books with titles like Flaming Desire.'

"My assessment isn't quite as grim," the NBC chief said, "but I would like to recall for newsmen the event that should be enough to call these meetings:

"I was at home, watching our evening news show, Tom Brokaw was giving the results of an NBC News-Associated Press poll on the Near East crisis. Suddenly I heard Tom say that one-quarter of the American people didn't even know there was a crisis! They didn't know that Israel had invaded Lebanon or that fighting had been raging that would alter the future of the entire area."

"We ran a poll," said the editor of The Washington Post, "showing that most people don't even know the names of their senators and their representatives."

"More evidence," said the book publisher, "that the book of Mr. L. Menken used to call them, has taken off."

"I wasn't more evidence we needed," said NBC. "The purpose of this meeting was to find out how we could stem the public's slide back toward primal savagery."

"So what did you come up with?" asked a public relations woman.

"We decided," NBC replied, "to divide our news programs into two segments, one the way we do it now and the other in cartoon form. The youngest viewer — the late teens and early twenties — are the most ignorant and apathetic. Only 10 percent even bother to vote."

"They grew up on late afternoon, and weekend cartoons," he continued. "So to win their hearts and minds we'll give them 'Mighty Mouse' and 'Daffy Duck' with

Mortality rates differ in U.S. regions

By Dryce Nelson

WASHINGTON, (LAT) — Deaths from heart disease and diabetes are significantly higher in the eastern United States than elsewhere in the country, the government has reported.

An atlas of disease distribution in the United States issued by the National Cancer Institute also showed that death rates in western states from alcohol-caused cirrhosis of the liver and venereal disease exceed the national rate.

Thomas J. Mason, chief author of the atlas, said that the government survey did not deal with the question of why the various regions differed.

As for cirrhosis of the liver, about 85 percent of which is caused by alcoholism, the dominant pattern is the consistently elevated mortality throughout California and parts of the southwest in both races and sexes, the study said. It added that the death rate from the disease is also high in urban areas of the northeast and Great Lakes states.

In discussing the death rate from syphilis and other venereal diseases, the study said that "clusters of high mortality are seen in California, Nevada and other western states among whites, with no pattern evident among non-whites." The study noted that "geographic patterns of this disease are especially difficult to interpret."

On the other hand, people in most parts of California and other western states have significantly lower death rates from heart disease, the nation's leading killer. This lower rate applies to many forms of cardiovascular illness including coronary heart disease, hypertension and cerebral hemorrhage.

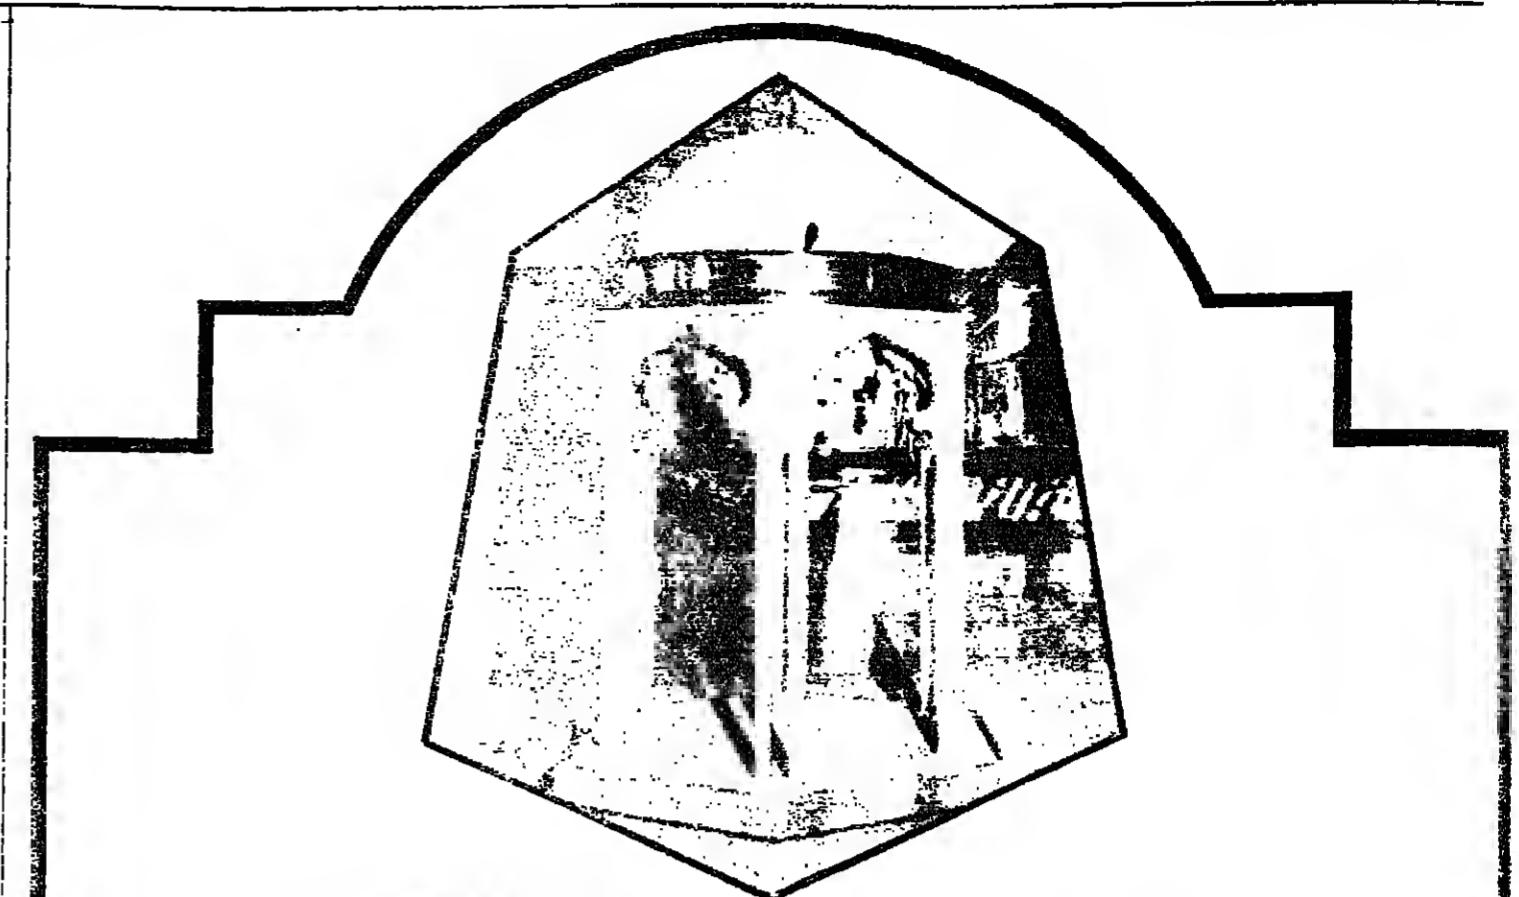

"U.S. cardiovascular illness rates are being driven up by the east," Mason told a reporter. The study indicated that above average coronary disease rates for whites are concentrated in Appalachia and the southeastern coastal plain.

The death rate from diabetes was significantly lower in parts of California and many parts of the west while an above-average death rate for diabetes was seen for white males and females from the midwest through the mid-Atlantic states, with clustering especially in Michigan, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, as well as in Southern Louisiana and South Texas, according to the study. No consistent patterns in diabetes were seen for non-whites.

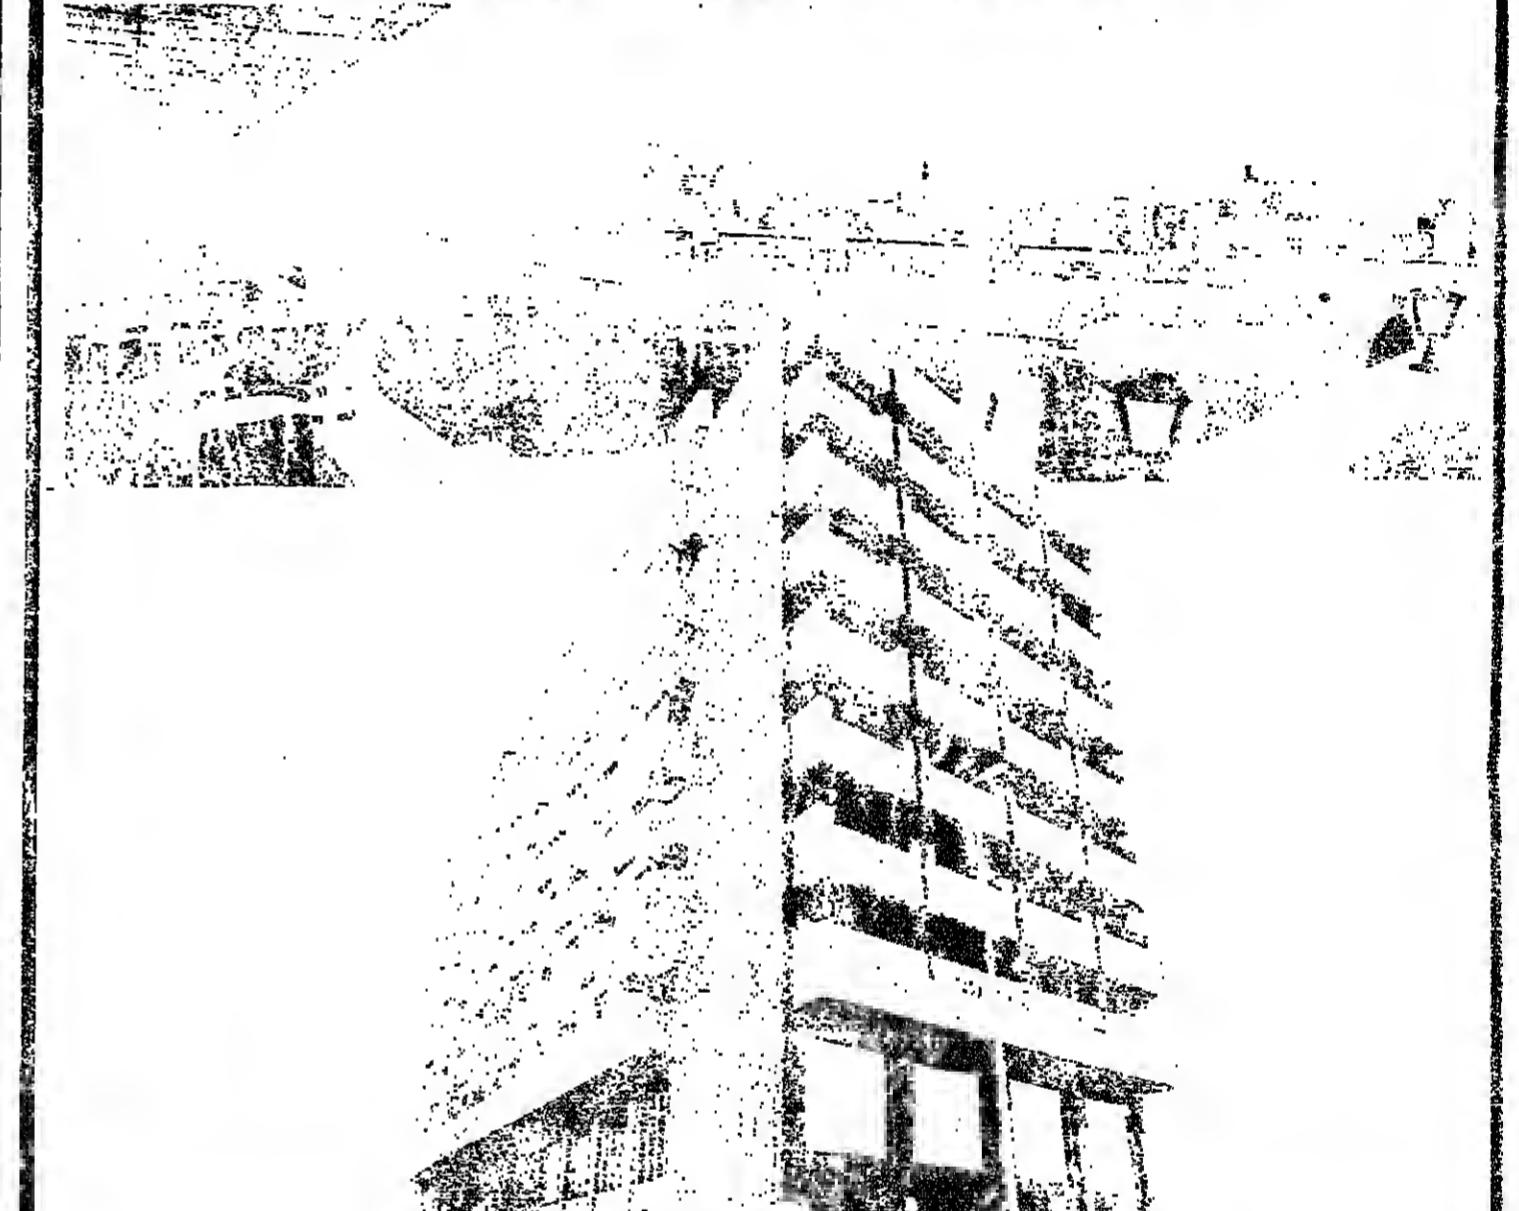

Another disease in which California had a lower than average death rate, according to the study, was multiple sclerosis. It was the only major disease, according to Mason, in which a significant national difference was seen between northern and southern states, with a much higher rate in rural areas of the north central and northern Rocky Mountain states.

Mortality rates in the study were calculated for the 1965 to 1971 period, which Mason said, was the last period with an adequate "data base" when researchers began their study in 1977. In addition to Mason, others writing the report were Joseph F. Fraumeni Jr., Robert Hoover and William J. Blot.

The study of 50 non-cancerous diseases, which took five years to complete, is a continuation of National Cancer Institute studies published in the mid-1970s on geographic distribution of deaths from major cancer in the United States.

U.K. to free POWs seized in Falklands

BUENOS AIRES, July 13 (Agencies) — Argentine Foreign Minister Juan Aguirre Lanari said Britain's decision to release all 593 remaining Argentine prisoners of war captured in the Falklands (Malvinas) conflict was a positive gesture.

Aguirre told reporters Monday that Argentina had not accepted a formal cessation of hostilities but was maintaining a de facto ceasefire. "What we have said is that Argentina maintains a de facto cessation of hostilities and there has been no change in our policy, because we cannot accept any kind of political conditioning," he said.

Argentine officials had earlier said there would not be definitive peace in the South Atlantic if Britain continued to reject negotiations on Argentina's sovereignty claims over the islands.

Aguirre said he had received no formal notification from Britain on the prisoners'

Two charged in deal for Reagan house

LOS ANGELES, July 13 (R) — A 74-year-old woman and her husband were charged with attempted grand theft in a swindle alleged to have involved President Reagan and his wife, Nancy.

A nine-count complaint alleged the woman, Ann Yarbrough, entered into an initial agreement to buy a five-bedroomed house owned by the Reagans in Pacific Palisades, California, for $1.4 million as a lever to obtain funds from other people.

Mrs. Yarbrough and her husband, James, 60, failed to make a $400,000 initial payment for the house and the deal eventually fell through, the complaint said. The two were charged with seven counts of grand theft, alleged to have involved $120,000, one count of attempted grand theft and one of conspiring to commit grand theft.

The charge of attempted grand theft concerned the alleged fraudulent attempt to buy the Reagans' home. The seven counts of grand theft were alleged to have involved swindles concerning friends of the Yarbroughs, a dentist and a estate agent.

The Yarbroughs, released on bail of $100,000 each, will be formally charged in court Friday. Prosecution officials said the Reagans did not lose financially but Mrs. Reagan had been listed as a potential witness in any trial.

Ban on U.S. buying of arms proposed

WASHINGTON, July 13 (R) — Jim Wright, Democratic leader in the House of Representatives, has proposed outlawing the U.S. purchase of any military equipment produced entirely abroad despite warnings from Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger that this would lead to opposition from Washington's allies.

Wright, told Weinberger in a letter made available Monday that it was "very poor strategy and sometimes downright dangerous for the United States to become dependent on foreign-made weapons." Wright said he had asked the House Armed Services Committee to consider a ban on the buying of weapons produced entirely in another country.

Weinberger replied: "I must in all candor oppose your amendment and ask you to reconsider. Our allies are viewing the proposal as a serious restriction in the path of arms cooperation and I agree with them."

Wright told Weinberger his move was prompted by the army's decision to buy two-way tank and truck radios from the Israeli firm Tadiran rather than a company based in Texas.

Tadiran offered to produce the radios for $39 million, $8 million less than a bid from E-systems, a Dallas-based firm that had built such equipment.

Wright said this would make the army dependent on a foreign source for all two-way radios in its entire fleet of tanks, armoured personnel carriers, heavy-duty trucks and self-propelled guns.

BRIEFS

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — Four persons fell 70 meters to their deaths from a freight cabin car in the Alps near here, the Austrian Press Agency reported Monday. The dead in Sunday's accident included a father and his 10-year-old son. APA reported. All were Austrians.

BELGRADE (R) — Mesa Selimovic, one of Yugoslavia's greatest writers, died in Belgrade Sunday. He was 73. Selimovic won all top Yugoslav literary awards for his work, and his novels The Dervish and the Death and The Fortress were translated into 30 languages. Selimovic, a member of the Serbian and Bosnian academies of arts and science, worked in government cultural offices, theaters and as a professor at Sarajevo University.

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian wild ass, once on the verge of extinction, is slowly showing signs that the species may not die out. This was the finding of a study conducted on the population ecology of the most endangered species of mammals and birds in the arid zones of the country.

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP) — Barbados Prime Minister Tom Adams will travel to Jamaica Tuesday for a four-day official visit, the government information service announced Monday. Adams will hold talks with his Jamaican counterpart.

SETAUKEE, New York (AP) — A car swerved out of control and crashed into the bedroom of a house early Monday, seriously injuring a 42-year-old woman who was sleeping inside, Suffolk County police said. Her husband was elsewhere in the house at the time of the accident and was not hurt. The driver also was uninjured. No charges were filed.

90 Mexicans killed in train plunge

TEPIC, Mexico, July 13 (AFP) — At least 90 persons died and 154 were injured when a train derailed and plunged into a ravine near this northwest Mexican town overnight, officials here said Monday. There were no immediate details on what caused the train, known as the bullet, to jump the rails.

Meanwhile, the Argentine junta has been divided on what position to adopt regarding the 593 prisoners of war. Fears have been expressed here about the repercussions of the prisoners' return.

What, it is asked, will be the attitude of Gen. Mario Menendez, commander of Puerto Argentino (Port Stanley) and his general staff?

The differences that caused the junta to split politically might re-emerge if the leaders of the troops who surrendered in the Falklands decide to settle some accounts. The junta, meanwhile, considers the appointment of a civilian vice president a foregone conclusion.

The junta regards such "restructuring" of the executive power as the indispensable element for the unity of the armed forces and its own "revival."

To placate the navy and also the air force, the vice president must be someone free from political strings and his role must be more than a purely formal one.

The idea, it is understood, is to appoint to the vice presidency one of the five supreme court judges and also to provide the Brigadone government with a consultative organ.

Its task would be to ensure that the return to democracy goes smoothly, now that the junta, as a fallout from the Falklands War, has been spurred to hand power back to the civilians by March 1984.

The appointment of a top-ranking judge as vice president, thereby marking the resurgence of the junta as "the supreme governing organ," might be announced soon.

The junta, according to those in the know, have given themselves a week in which to restore their unity — a unity regarded as vital by civilian politicians if the transition to Argentina's pristine democracy is to succeed.

Soviets vulnerable to curbs, U.S. says

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — International trade is far more important to the Soviet economy than has been thought, the U.S. census bureau reported Monday.

"The Soviet Union's participation in world trade relative to its national income is in fact two or three times higher than has been recognized," said the new study.

Census director Bruce Chapman observed that this involvement in world trade "suggests greater Soviet vulnerability to economic sanctions than has been understood up to now."

"The new analysis shows that the Soviet Union is more open to the influences of international market forces than many people have believed," he said.

Census researcher Vladimir G. Treml and Barry L. Estinsky explained that they reached their conclusion by recalculating published statistics of Soviet imports and exports.

The influence of international trade has seemed small, they said, because it has been calculated on the artificially inflated official exchange rate of the ruble.

Instead of using this official rate, they said, he and Kostinsky worked out a method of calculating the actual value of imports and exports on the Soviet domestic market.

These figures show international trade to be much more important to the Soviet economy than had been thought, said Treml, who also teaches at Duke University. And, he said, that ratio has been increasing steadily since the 1950s when the Soviet government began a program of increasing such trade.

U.S. said playing politics on silver

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — Critics accused President Ronald Reagan's administration of playing politics by delaying a decision on whether to resume sales of silver from the country's defense stockpiles.

The administration missed a July 1 deadline set by Congress for making a recommendation on whether the sales should be resumed.

Consumers had hoped the administration would call for the sale of the remaining 140 million ounces of silver stockpiled at West Point, New York, and San Francisco.

But Western mining interests are opposed to the sales. They argue the sales threaten an already depressed industry.

— After Interior Secretary James Watt announced on June 29, the postponement of the sales, the price of silver climbed 46.9 cents in one day on the New York commodity exchange.

Canada tight-lipped on Dome rescue bid

OTTAWA, July 13 (R) — Energy Minister Marc Lalonde declined comment on press reports that the federal government may be about to carry out a major financial rescue operation for Dome Petroleum Ltd. (DMP).

The Toronto Star said over the weekend that Ottawa is considering either a major loan guarantee for Dome Petroleum or a direct loan in exchange for shares in Dome or its Canadian subsidiary Dome Canada Ltd. A DMP spokesman in Toronto said he is unaware of any pending announcement from the company on an agreement about its debt.

Both DMP and Lalonde have said they are holding talks on the company's debt problems with Canada's five major banks. Lalonde recently announced the federally owned oil corporation Petro-Canada would guarantee a $110 million loan for Dome Canada Ltd.

Dunlop selling Malaysian interest

LONDON, July 13 (AFP) — Dunlop, the British tire manufacturers, is selling its remaining Malaysian interest for 73 million pounds. It was announced here.

The company is selling its 51 percent stake in Dunlop Malaysian Industries. Malaysia's largest tire manufacturer, to the Malaysian company Pegi, which has a major Dunlop share stake and a joint share in its former plantation interests.

Pegi will pay five installments over the next two years, but Dunlop will continue to manage the tire operation on its behalf.

Dunlop sold its Malaysian plantation operations last September for 60 million pounds to another Malaysian company, Multi-Purpose Holdings.

Multi-Purpose and Pegi then set up a company to hold Pegi's near 17 percent stake in Dunlop and the newly-acquired plantation company shares. Dunlop shares on the stock exchange edged ahead on the news.

Italy's industrial production declines

ROME, July 13 (R) — Italian industrial output, seasonally adjusted, fell a provisional 0.4 percent in May, the National Statistics Institute, ISTAT, said.

No year-on-year comparison was available before making a change in ISTAT's seasonal adjustment method at the start of this year, but unadjusted output rose 1.9 percent from May last.

ISTAT's seasonally adjusted production index, base 1970 but calculated since January by the U.S. Census Bureau method X-11, fell to 136.5 in May from 137.1, revised, in April.

The unadjusted index, also base 1970, fell 1.1 percent in May to 144.1 from 145.7 in April but rose from 141.4 in May last year.

U.S. bank cuts rate

CHICAGO, July 13 (R) — Continental Illinois Corp said its subsidiary, Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co., cut its broker loan rate to 14.75 percent from 15.5 percent effective immediately. Other broker loan rates are now quoted in a range from 14.5 to 16.25 percent.

BA plans to cut 7,000 more jobs

LONDON, July 13 (AP) — State-owned British Airways, which is losing 250 million pounds ($435 million) a year, said Monday it plans to lay off 7,000 more workers over the next few months in an effort to meet the government's denationalization targets.

The proposed job cuts announced by BA chairman Roy Watts will reduce the airline's work force to 35,000 by March 31, 1983. That will be 23,000 fewer workers than three years ago.

In a memorandum to the staff, Watts said "we calculate that this figure gives the level of costs we can afford and makes us equal to, or better than, our major competitors."

The layoffs are part of a long-range survival plan BA has offered the conservative government in return for financial support to allow the airline to be sold before the next general election, which must be held before May 1984.

The accountancy firm Price Waterhouse has recommended an injection of 812 million pounds ($1.4 billion) to help offset accumulated debts of 1 billion pounds ($1.74 billion). The airline has cut back services in a slimming-down of its worldwide operations.

For expansion overseas GEC casts eyes on AEG

LONDON, July 13 (R) — Britain's General Electric Company (GEC), one of the most profitable industrial firms in Europe, sees the chance for a major expansion overseas by joining in the rescue of West Germany's ailing AEG-Telefunken.

But GEC's managing director, Lord Weinstock, has met resistance from West German union leaders because of his reputation as a ruthless "job killer" who does not hesitate to shut down unprofitable factories.

Analysts in London, where Lord Weinstock's management of Britain's top electrical engineering group is highly regarded, believe the proposed deal with the German electrical giant could be the biggest gamble of his career.

In GEC's first major advance into a cross-channel business deal-up, Weinstock is interested in taking a 40 percent share in a planned AEG Technik Company, which would take over AEG's capital goods division ranging from power plants and defense equipment to telecommunications and electronics.

GEC believes the deal would offer new access for its products into markets in continental Europe, Latin America and the Far East. It would also offer long-term technical collaboration, and a good financial return if reforms by the AEG management can unlock the profit potential of a huge company.

Whether GEC can pull it off, in the face of union opposition and German preference for an all-German solution to AEG's massive problems, may not be known for some time.

Lord Weinstock held a five-hour meeting with union leaders in Frankfurt on Saturday, but there was no sign that they had muted their opposition to GEC taking of a minority stake.

The GEC involvement is one of the controversial aspects of the AEG management's plans to save the firm, one of West Germany's 15 largest and already 50 percent owned by banks.

With losses this year expected to reach 500 million marks ($220 million), AEG is also seeking 1.5 billion marks ($600 million) in credit guarantees from federal and state governments. If Bonn agrees later this week, the banks can lend more money risk-free, giving the firm a breathing space.

GEC, which is not connected with the American firm of the same name, last month reported sales in its last financial year of 4.95 billion sterling ($8.5 billion) and a 23 percent rise to pre-tax profits to $84 million ($1 billion). So it can easily afford the projected cost of 750 million marks ($333 million) for the AEG purchase.

Joint action to up copper prices urged

LIMA, July 13 (R) — Peru, Zambia and Indonesia have made an urgent appeal to copper producers to act together in helping boost the metal's depressed international price.

At a meeting of the inter-governmental Council of Copper Exporting Countries (CIEPEC) which opened in Lima Monday, delegates said that world copper prices were at their lowest point in real terms since the Wall Street crash of 1929.

Peruvian Mines Minister Pedro Pablo Kuczynski said the two-day conference would be crucial in deciding whether the organization had any real power to affect copper's market value.

"CIEPEC either does something now or declares to the world that it can do something, or admits that it is basically an organization dedicated to the exchange of information without a real effect on the market," Kuczynski said.

Zambian Mines Minister Mufaya Mumbwa said there was an urgent necessity for CIEPEC to agree on an international floor price for copper beneath which its eight members would refuse to sell.

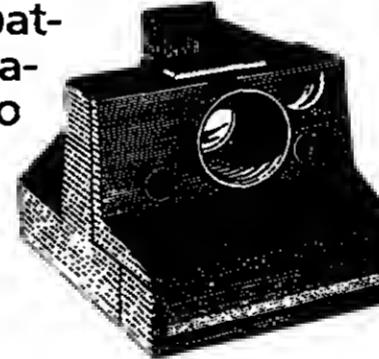

The head of the Indonesian delegation, Irawan Darsa, said his country would support any joint action by CIEPEC to improve prices.

U.S. urged to renew grain pact

WASHINGTON, July 13 (R) — U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block urged President Ronald Reagan to negotiate a new grain sales pact with the Soviet Union to help American farmers.

After a meeting with the president, Block told reporters he would press for an agreement to replace the existing pact that expires on Sept. 30.

The issue of grain sales to the Soviet Union, scheduled to be discussed by the cabinet Thursday, is expected to spark a major battle within the administration.

Some foreign policy advisers want the pact to lapse, to underline U.S. displeasure at martial law in Poland and to reinforce the decision to extend sanctions against the Soviet natural gas pipeline.

They also say a major new grain deal with Moscow would anger Reagan's conservative supporters in the Republican Party. Block drew a distinction between grain sales and WASHINGON, July 13 (R) — Japan announced that its trade was in surplus by $1.92 billion in the first half of this year, sharply down from the $8.02 billion in the second half of last year.

However, the finance ministry figure based on customs clearances was above the $7.24 million surplus in the first half of last year.

There was a 5.3 percent reduction in the level of imports compared with the first half of 1981, while exports fell more modestly, by 3.6 percent.

Japan has been under strong pressure from the United States and European Economic Community to reduce its trade surpluses. In May it unveiled a package of measures to promote imports, including the reduction or elimination of 215 import tariffs and the easing of import procedures.

Reagan seeks new budget law

WASHINGTON, July 13 (R) — President Ronald Reagan said a proposed constitutional amendment which would require a balanced federal budget is needed to assure reduced government spending and taxation.

"Americans understand that the discipline of a balanced budget amendment is essential to stop squandering and overtaxing," he said in a Rose Garden ceremony surrounded by congressional supporters of the amendment.

Reagan has long supported the concept of a balanced budget requirement in the constitution which is being debated this week in the Senate.

Reagan's ban on the use of U.S. technology for the Siberian pipeline taking gas to Western Europe.

"The pipeline is a completely different issue," he said. European allies have criticized Reagan's trade policies toward the Soviet Union as inconsistent. But U.S. officials say the Soviet Union has to pay cash for grain imports and this cuts into the amount available for military spending. In contrast, the pipeline would generate foreign currency for Moscow, they add.

Block said a simple one-year extension of the existing grain pact was one option he had discussed with Reagan. The U.S. Agriculture Department estimates that with the Kremlin facing its fourth bad harvest in a row, Soviet grain imports will reach a near-record 42 million tons over the next 12 months.

Under the present grain agreement, now in its sixth year, the United States sells between six and eight million tons a year to the Soviet Union. Block said he told the president about the severe financial problems facing the U.S.

Freight rates continue to dip

LONDON, July 13 (AFP) — Freight rates continued to weaken last week, falling in several sectors to their lowest for nearly four years.

The United States independence day holiday brought a very quiet start of the week, and business subsequently remained subdued.

South Africa chartering was robust toward the end of the week, while South Korean charters were also quite active.

But some of the rate cuts over the past month have persuaded more owners to lay up their vessels, rather than attempt to find work at current levels.

Communist Chinese charters appeared after a month's absence to book a 30,000-ton grain cargo out of the U.S. Gulf at $22 a ton — $5.50 less than previously paid.

From the same loading area, a 52,000-ton grain shipment to Japan was paid $13.50 a ton 50 cents less than the week before.

A similar-sized cargo was booked to Europe at only $6.60 — a three-year low and agricultural sector, with farm income plunging to the lowest level, when inflation is taken into account, since the depression.

Meanwhile, in a related development, the U.S. Agriculture Department said extremely poor weather is continuing to darken the Soviet Union's crop outlook.

It slashed another 15 million metric tons from the 1982 Soviet harvest estimate.

Unusually hot, dry and windy weather in the major-producing area east of the Ural Mountains is blamed for the reduction to 170 million metric tons from June's 185 million metric ton estimate, the department said.

That's 68 million metric tons short of the Kremlin's harvest target for this year and marks the Soviets' fourth straight poor crop and the worst by U.S. estimates since 1975.

"The crop has failed to develop sufficiently to reflect the vigor shown even in 1981," the report said.

Meanwhile, analysts put the 1982-1983 world grain harvest at 1.62 billion metric tons.

A 51,000-ton grain vessel was booked out of the St. Lawrence River at $7/ton for discharge at Seaforth (Liverpool, England) — down $2.75 on an early June fixture.

The Great Lakes grain traffic did not escape the general depression. An example was a fixture to Europe of a 17,000-tonner at $17/ton — $1 down on previous business, the lowest since mid-1978 and $5.50 below this year's high in April.

Out of the U.S. Pacific coast, a grain cargo was booked to Egypt at $24.50/ton — $3 less than earlier.

Unknown Holroyd surprises Ramirez

BROOKLINE, Massachusetts, July 13 (AP) — Virtually unknown Glen Holroyd, the world's 243rd ranked player, pulled a whopping upset by ousting fifth-seeded Raul Ramirez of Mexico, 7-6, 6-4 Monday in the opening round of the $200,000 U.S. pro Tennis Championships at Longwood.

"This is the first time I've got past the first round this year," Holroyd said after the biggest victory of his pro career. "I served and volleyed very well."

Ramirez ranked 20th by the Association of Tennis Professionals, was caught by surprise, particularly by Holroyd's soft drop shots as the eight-day tournament got underway before only a handful of spectators.

Seventh-seeded Mel Purcell, the 1980 ATP rookie of the year, breezed to a 6-0, 6-2 victory over Alejandro Gastikier of Argentina, while ninth-seeded Van Wimsky overcame a slow start to gain a 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 decision over Gabriel Uri of Spain.

"Unseeded American Eric Fromm scored a mild upset with an easy 6-2, 6-1 victory over 11th-seeded Jose Luis Damiani of Uruguay. Tom Cain of the United States, ranked 265 by the ATP, added another upset by whipping Spain's Juan Avendano, who had been seeded 18th.

Holroyd, 27, checked into Longwood after just missing in a qualifying bid at Wimbledon and qualifying but bounced out in the first round at the Hall of Fame tournament last week in Newport, Rhode Island.

Holroyd won the first set in a 12-point tie-breaker 7-5. Then he methodically out-played Ramirez, taking the second set. With many seeded players, including No. 1 Guillermo Vilas and Ivan Lendl, given an extra day to travel from distant weekend tournaments Holroyd's upset featured the clay court action.

Meanwhile, veteran Jeff Borowiak, of United States, surprised second seed Brian Teacher 2-6, 6-3, 6-1 in the first round of the Stuttgart Open Tournament. Indian players were in good form with Sashi Menon rallying to beat Mike Myburg 2-6, 6-4, 6-2 and Ramesh Krishnan ousting Christoph Zoff 6-2, 6-2.

Mandlikova champ

In Sydney, Czechoslovakian Hana Mandlikova signaled she'll be on the road back to the top of women's tennis with a 7-5, 6-3 victory over Pam Shriver in the Seiko Ladies Indoor Tennis final.

Plagued by a back problem since losing the 1981 Wimbledon final to Chris Evert Lloyd, Mandlikova gave the first real indication that she can re-establish herself a force on the women's tour.

Mandlikova said she had been confident of beating Shriver. "I always feel very comfortable playing against her because she is basically a serve-and-volley player."

At times, Mandlikova literally turned Shriver around at the net with beautiful concealed shots from the baseline. "On the slow surfaces here I found I had much more time."

Mandlikova collected $40,000 for her victory, while Shriver netted $25,000. Mandlikova now has a 3-0 record against Shriver, who said was hampered by a nagging shoulder injury during the match.

In the doubles, Americans Zina Garrison and Kathy Rinaldi defeated the experienced pair of Mandlikova and Betty Stove of the Netherlands 6-4, 6-2.

Cosmos maintains top berth

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP) — The New York Cosmos beat the defending Soccer Bowl champion Chicago Sting 2-1 over the weekend, snapping a three-game losing streak and staying on top of the North American Soccer League's Eastern Division.

Julio Cesar Romero, a veteran of Paraguay's national team and South African winger Steve Wegerle scored the Cosmos goals.

Earlier in the week, the Cosmos dropped a 2-1 decision to the Edmonton Drillers, with Jaan Stein scoring New York's only goal. Finland-native Kai Haaskivi and Jan Goossens of West Germany tallied for the Drillers.

The Sting, who had a three-game winning streak broken by the Cosmos, had beaten the Tampa Bay Rowdies 2-1 earlier in the week. West Germany's Karl Heinz-Granitzia scored the only Chicago goal in regulation, while another West German, Hans Weinger, had the game winner in a shootout.

The Toronto Blizzard moved into sole possession of second place by breaking a four-game losing skid with a 2-0 win over Le Manie of Montreal Wednesday night. David Byrne of England and Neill Roerts of South Africa provided the scoring.

The Fort Lauderdale Strikers got a pair of games last week, losing to division rival Tuas 3-1 and beating Toronto 3-2 in overtime.

Englishman Brian Kidd, who scored the Strikers' only goal against Tulsa, connected twice against Toronto. West German Edi Kirscher also added a goal in the victory over the Blizzard. British-born Awan Merrick and David Needham of England scored for Toronto.

The San Jose Earthquakes moved ahead of the Vancouver Whitecaps into the Western Division lead by beating their rivals 1-0 on a goal by Chris Dangerfield of England.

The Jacksonville Tea Men captured a 2-1 overtime decision over Vancouver Saturday, with Englishman Alan Green scoring the winner in the 102nd minute.

The San Diego Sockers, champions of the NASL indoor season, won two games last week, they beat the Seattle Sounders 2-1 on two goals by U.S. citizen Fip Vee and edged the Rowdies 2-1 on two goals by West German Lorenz Hilkes.

Bench... holds unique contract

Ferragamo likely to rejoin Rams

By Susan Saporito
Houston Bureau

HOUSTON, July 13 — After leaving Southern California for a career in Canadian football, former Los Angeles Ram quarterback Vince Ferragamo will be returning to his old team this summer, it was reported.

A Los Angeles daily paper said Ferragamo will enter a training camp with the team's rookies July 18 to prepare for summer exhibition games.

Rams officials were scheduled to meet with Ferragamo's agent, David Fishof earlier this week in negotiate a deal that reportedly calls for the quarterback to receive $350,000 (SR1.2 million) a year during a 3 to 5-year contract.

Ferragamo played last year under personal contract to the owner of the now defunct Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League.

Meanwhile, hockey legend Gordie Howe recently was named special assistant to the managing general partner of the Hartford Whalers, of the National Hockey League (NHL), after allegedly complaining that the Whalers were treating him poorly.

Howe, 54, was reportedly dissatisfied with his job as director of player development and allegedly threatened to leave and take a position with the Detroit Red Wings where he started his career as a player.

In his new position, Howe will be working directly with Managing General partner Howard Baldwin, attending NHL board-of-governors meetings, representing the club on some committees and handling special public relations assignments. Howe will also be given special scouting assignments.

Beginning his career with the Detroit Red Wings, Howe retired with the Whalers after the 1979-80 season. He played a total of 32 seasons of professional hockey, including a brief stint with the Huston Aeros of the now defunct World Hockey Association. Howe holds the record for most career points, goals and assists.

To put Middlesex on top

Emburey sends Nottingham reeling

LONDON, July 13 (R) — English County championship leaders Middlesex gave champions Nottinghamshire a mauling on the second day of their match at Trent Bridge Monday.

Nottinghamshire suffered the indignity of being asked to follow on after they slumped from 78 for no wicket to 190 all out in reply to Middlesex's first innings score of 383. Off-spinner John Emburey was the main tormentor, taking four for 32 in 18 overs. Nottinghamshire had scored 140 for no wicket in their second inning by the close.

Sussex, only a point behind the leaders, bad Somerset on the run at Hove. After taking their first innings 61 behind, they had Somerset reeling at 52 for five. Paceman Tony Pigott did the damage, taking three for six in five overs.

Deposed England skipper Keith Fletcher hammered 124 as Essex piled up 449 for six — lead of 197 — over Northamptonshire at Northampton, and there were centuries by Lancashire's John Abrahams against Surrey and Phil Bainbridge for Gloucestershire against Yorkshire.

Meanwhile, the Pakistan tourists needed just two and a half hours to claim nine Worcestershire wickets and gain another victory Monday in their impressive start of the England tour.

Having lost the whole of the morning through rain and bad light, the Pakistan spinners Abdul Qadir and Iqbal wrecked the County batting with only two batsmen offering any resistance. Martin Weston bit 93 and Phil Neale made 59 in Worcestershire's 186 second inning tally of 186.

Qasim, the left-arm spinner, finished with five for 52 and leg break specialist Abdul Qadir took four for 75 to take his wickets total on the tour to 34 in five matches.

Pakistan which scored 467 for four declared, won by an innings and 93 runs, dismissing Worcestershire for 183 and 186.

Slim Bouaziz, Tunisia, playing white pieces, and Soviet Union's champion Lev Pnsakhsis, with Sicilian defense, drew in 40

Brief scores:
At Cardiff: Hampshire 270 in 82 overs versus Glamorgan. No play because of rain.

At Trent Bridge: Middlesex 383 in 132.5 overs (M. Brien six for 134), versus Nottinghamshire 190 in 82.2 overs (B. Hassan 48, J. Emburey four for 32) and 140 for no wicket.

At Old Trafford: Surrey 324 in 136.1 overs (A. Needham 134 not out, R. Jackman 60) and three for one versus Lancashire 249 in 94.3 overs (J. Abrahams 124, A. Needham five for 91).

At Coalfield: Leicestershire 234 in 98.2 overs and 125 for two (C. Balderstone 50 not out) versus Derbyshire 250 in 108.2 overs (P.

At Bradford: Yorkshire 279 in 102 overs and 34 for one versus Gloucestershire 266 for seven declared in 105 overs (P. Bainbridge 103, P. Romaine 74, D. Graveney 41 not out).

At Hove: Somerset 356 for eight declared in 105 overs and 52 for five versus Sussex 295 in 100.5 overs (I. Greig 62, C. Wells 65, C. Phillipson 64, V. Marks four for 93).

Petrosian loses opening tie

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, July 13 (AP) — Top favorite grand master Jan Timman of Holland, playing with black pieces and using a Queen's India defense, defeated Walter Browne of the United States in 45 moves in the opening round of the 13-round Interzine Chess Tournament Monday.

The biggest surprise of the round was Sveti Vladimir Tukmakov's victory over his countryman and former world champion Tigran Petrosian in 33 moves. Tukmakov also used a Queen's India defense.

Fourteen grand masters and international masters from ten countries were taking part in the tournament, which ends July 31.

In other matches, Jozef Pinter, Hungary, playing with white pieces, and Jaime Sunye Neto, Brazil, with a Nimzo-Indian defense, drew in 41 moves. Zoltan Ribli, Hungary, playing white pieces and with the English opening, and Jonathan Mestel, England, drew in 36 moves.

Slim Bouaziz, Tunisia, playing white pieces, and Soviet Union's champion Lev Pnsakhsis, with Sicilian defense, drew in 40 moves. Bent Larsen, Denmark, playing Sicilian defense, defeated Lars Karlsson, Sweden, who played with white pieces, in 51 moves.

The match between Michael Suba, Romania, playing white pieces and with a English opening, and former world champion Asily Smisgov, Soviet Union, was adjourned after 41 moves.

The two top players at the end of the tournament will advance to the Candidates Tournament, to be played next year. Also participating in the Candidates Tournament will be the two top finishers in two other Interzone Tournaments, as well as Victor Korchnoi of the Soviet Union and West German Rubert Hubner.

The winner of the Candidates Tournament will play for the world title in 1984 against current world champion Anatoly Karpov of the Soviet Union. The location and exact date of the Candidates Tournament has not yet been determined. The other Interzone Tournaments will be played in Mexico (August 11-31) and Moscow (September 7-27).

NANTES, France, July 13 (R) — Stephan Mutter of Switzerland won the 132 km ninth stage of the Tour de France Cycle race Monday a full minute clear of the pack. But he ended the day in 72nd place overall, presenting little challenge to the cyclists battling it out at the top.

With just two minutes separating the leader Phil Anderson of Australia from France's Regis Clerc in 10th place the tour is still anyone's race. This morning the 17 commercially-sponsored teams contested a 5 km time-trial from Lorient to Plumelec in Brittany, which replaced the one canceled last week after disruptions by demonstrating steel-workers. The result counted towards overall individual classifications.

Anderson's team was fifth and he later came tenth in the shortened road stage from Plumelec to Nantes to keep the leader's yellow jersey which he has worn for the last week.

French favorite Bernard Hinault's team came second in the time trial and this was enough to put him in second spot overall Monday night, 28 seconds behind Anderson.

Leading ninth stage placings:
1. Stephan Mutter (Switzerland) 3:07:32
2. Pierre Raymond (France) 3:08:30
3. Jan Raaij (Netherlands) 3:08:31

As India faces uphill task

Willis' declaration infuses life in Test

TON, July 13 (Agencies) — Bob Willis, to force a decision in the third Test against India, declared England's second innings at 191 for three wickets at the Oval Tuesday.

India set a task of scoring 376 for victory, began disastrously losing two wickets for just 18 runs on the board, but the experienced pair of Dilip Vengsarkar and Gundappa Viswanath steadied the innings somewhat to

Weaver to defend title against Cobb

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP) — Mike Weaver will defend his World Boxing Association heavyweight championship against Randy "Tex" Cobb Sunday, July 25, at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, Nevada, a Caesars Palace spokesman announced Monday.

Bob Halloran, corporate director of sports for Caesars World, said an agreement for the fight was reached Sunday. There had been a question of sanctioning for the fight, but it was resolved last week.

Meanwhile, World Boxing Council junior flyweight champion Hilario Zapata of Panama gave indications of things to come as he pounded two Japanese partners while

Mundial '82 failed to come

By Pele
Special to Arab News

MADRID, July 13 — Now that the Italians have been reinstated as the Julius Caesars of world football, there remain some pertinent questions about Mundial '82.

The international game has advanced in time by four years between the Argentina and Spain tournaments, but candidly I am wondering if the hands of the clock have not turned backward.

From what I saw in the last four weeks, we were left with little encouragement to believe that Columbia '86, or wherever, will be any better or worse.

What was new in Spain? Almost nothing. The game has stopped moving forward. We have seen it all before. There was not a memorable "new player" unless it was Falcao, of Brazil, who unfortunately did not get beyond the second round to substantiate his claims, or Tigrana, of France, who at least got to the third-fourth place final.

I liked the black Tigrana because, unlike so many performances here, he preferred to play the ball forward, more a rarity in today's game than you perhaps think.

There was not a "new" team to uplift us although the unspoiled, positive France tried hard enough, and the "new" Brazil promised so much but left us unfulfilled.

Overall, and sadly, I was left with the conclusion that World Cup Football in the main has stopped exciting us and that the level of technique in Spain was the lowest of the last four tournaments.

In the end, it was won by Italy's professionalism and opportunism — the unsung Italians who came late in Spain and came good!

It might all have at least looked differently if the Brazilians had not flattered so much in their first four games and so totally deceived so many of their followers that they were more experienced at this World Cup, than actually were.

I still contend that the crucial period of the whole tournament was after Falcao had brought Brazil to 2-2 against the Italians in Barcelona. The Italians must have felt they were then eliminated because they could think in terms of only how they themselves would have closed the gate if the position had been reversed.

Only 22 minutes remained and the dashing cavaliers from Brazil, needing only the tie they had in their grasp to become semifinalist, would have been forgiven by the world for a short spell of conservative football in self protection.

Instead, they were guilty of undisciplined handling of their greatest test in Mundial '82, and lost the game, lost the tournament (in my view) and lost many friends as well.

Over-confidently, they wanted to go on the official record as having won a contest which, in fact, they had already won by goal difference on the tie alone.

Victory for Brazil in the World Cup final, presuming they would have advanced that far, would have ignited a smile across the tournament's face and given the romantics cause to assert that the game no longer needed psychiatry.

But even if they had become the champions again, I should still have insisted that this squad was well behind the previous Brazil World Cup winners on experience and individuals. At least the neutral world would have been happier with Brazil enthroned.

The Latin American assault on the championship was just not good enough even though the extremely hot weather conditions should have been less demanding on them.

It was a World Cup that brought warring nations to the same table, although Argentina and the three teams from Great Britain avoided one another as the games fell.

Attendances were well below estimate with many Spaniards preferring television, but FIFA expects to double '78 revenues by toppling $50 million, mostly from world TV rights.

It was also a Mundial of some expensive hotel and ticket packages and other unexpected examples of Mundial-flation. In Madrid, you have your shoes cleaned by a Turkish hool boy outside the museum — for the same price.

My deepest regret was that the star players, like Maradona, Zico and, in the end, Rummenigge, did not triumph in their most challenging theater.

For Maradona, at least, there is, at 21, still time to convince us, Adios, Mundial. Aste (see you) en Columbia, or wherever.

Home come the heroes amid fan adulation, gaiety

ROME, July 13 (R) — A massive crowd welcomed home Italy's World Cup-winning soccer squad Monday.

Fans surged past helpless police cordon as the plane bearing the players and Italian President Sandro Pertini landed at Rome's Ciampino Military Airport. Thousands took the day off from work to greet the party who descended the aircraft steps led by manager Enzo Bearzot and captain Dino Zoff, passing the gold trophy from hand to hand.

The entire road system around the airport was blocked and flights were halted as the crowds spilled on to the aprons and runways.

Meanwhile, the debris of a night of wild celebration littered the streets of Italy's cities. Newspapers made record sales and state and private television ran endless replays of the 3-1 victory over West Germany in Madrid. The team was later attending a celebration lunch with President Pertini at the presidential palace.

Italy's mass-circulation sports papers, most of which had sneered at Italy's chances and savaged Bearzot's coaching in the first round, splashed huge pictures and banner headlines praising the victory. The top selling Corriere dello Sport sold over a quarter of a million extra copies and the sales of its competitor Gazzetta dello Sport were up nearly 200,000. But the weekly magazine L'Espresso described the Italian sports journalists as the main losers in the World Cup.

Throughout the peninsula the cost of one of Italy's craziest nights for years was being added up. Police reported numerous car crashes, at least 20 heart attacks in central Rome and many other accidents.

In Rome, one group of New Zealanders, taken for Germans by the crowds, found themselves thrown fully clad into the Trevi Fountain. In Geneva, police arrested a man who fired a shotgun at his neighbors to quieten their celebrations. Nobody was hurt. But in southern Calabria two young men were gravely ill in hospital after a shooting incident during a parade of exuberant football supporters.

In Toronto, the city's half a million Italian immigrants celebrated with a boisterous all-night street party. Police closed off 15 streets in Toronto's "little Italy" district for the revelers. One man rushed out into the street after the game, put an Italian flag on the ground and kissed it repeatedly. Even dogs were draped in the Italian colors.

On the other hand, thousands of cheering fans packed the square in front of Frankfurt's Town Hall as beaten finalist West Germany arrived for a civic reception.

The disappointment of the night's defeat by Italy was forgotten in the general good humor and pride at the team's performance. Other fans lined the route from the airport to see the players drive past in a motorcade.

A huge cheer greeted captain Karl-Heinz Rummenigge as he led the squad onto the Town Hall balcony. The players waved and tossed flowers to the chanting crowds. Traffic came to a standstill as lorry drivers stopped to hoot and wave as the team drove into town after an airport welcome from former West German trainer Helmut Schoen, whose 1974 team won the World Cup.

A total of 17 people were injured and nine others arrested here during the night as West German and Italian football fans clashed after watching the final on television.

According to the police around 1000 young West Germans, incensed over their side's defeat, rook to the streets and attacked a group of celebrating Italians. Shouting "foreigners out," they continued by kicking and damaging cars parked along the streets.

The Poland's soccer team flew home to a heroes' welcome and lines of martial law riot police.

The plane carrying the team arrived about 12 hours late at Warsaw Airport but more than 5,000 fans waited up to wave banners, throw bunches of flowers and cheer home their players, who finished third in the tournament.

The authorities brought in several truckloads of armed police, who formed a cordon round the entrance to the tarmac. No trouble was reported from the supporters.

The Polish performance, followed avidly by the nation on television, lifted the morale of a country depressed by its economic crisis and the restrictions of martial law, in effect since last December.

Five soccer stars make the scene at Johannesburg

JOHANNESBURG, July 13 (R) — Five members of an 18-man squad of top soccer players have arrived in South Africa for a controversial two-week, six match tour, press reports said Tuesday.

The South African Press Association (SAPA) and The Citizen newspaper quoted football sources as saying the five were former England striker Brian Greenhous, who plays for Leeds United, former Tottenham Hotspur goalkeeper Milija Aleksić, Derby County's Barry Powell and Jimmy Gordon, and an unnamed British black player.

With Gavaskar out injured, only two wickets were remaining and the drama continued.

Suru Nayak survived a lbw decision the first ball he faced, and then mistimed a pull onto his wicket. To the agony of the England players, the ball dropped from Nayak's pads on to the base of the leg-stump but failed to remove the bails. Next ball, he turned Edmonds for a single and the Indians were safe.

Drama followed as India's tailenders fought valiantly to save the follow-on. One run short off their target, pace bowler Madan Lal was dismissed in controversial fashion. Bob Taylor appealed for a catch behind the stumps, supported by the close-in fielders, the umpire's finger went up.

The reports said the players' whereabouts were being kept secret until the Football Council of South Africa (FCSA) made its expected announcement launching the tour Wednesday. FCSA's legal adviser Raymond Heck, who is also vice-chairman of the National Professional Soccer League, declined to comment on the reports beyond saying: "Wait until Wednesday's press conference where everything will be cleared up."

A South African firm described as conjecture a report on South African television Monday night that it was sponsoring the tour to the tune of two million rand ($1.74 million). Paul Winslow, the firm's sponsorship manager, said that a formal announcement regarding my company's speculated involvement in the tour has not been made, and it won't be made until Wednesday.

In London, South African Airways said that 13 players and officials had been booked on flight for Johannesburg on Tuesday. They said the players included English First Division club Southampton's former international players Alan Ball and Mike Channon.

The national newspaper The Daily Mail reported Tuesday that Nottingham Forest's black striker Justin Fashanu was considering a lucrative offer to join the party.

Other newspaper reports have speculated that Argentine internationals Osvaldo Ardiles and Mario Kempes will also be in the rebel squad. Ardiles played for London First Division club Tottenham Hotspur in the last Britishish season.

George Thabe, president of FCSA, returned from the World Cup final in Spain Monday and refused to comment on reports of an imminent tour of this country by top soccer players. "As far as I know there is no tour, but I could say differently tomorrow," he told reporters at the airport.

The international soccer controlling body FIFA has warned players who take part in such a tour that they would face reprisals. South Africa was expelled from FIFA in 1976 because of its race separation (apartheid) policies.

The British Secretary of State Neil MacFarlane, tried to persuade the British from making the tour on the grounds that it violated the 1977 Gleneagles agreement among the Commonwealth nations.

Poles still restive, Soviet paper warns

MOSCOW, July 13 (Agencies) — A leading Soviet newspaper said that the Polish crisis is far from over and that much of the unrest stems from "anti-Socialist sentiment" among youth and Roman Catholic agitation against the seven-month-old martial law regime.

The lengthy article in the government newspaper Izvestia hinted that large amounts of Soviet aid are still needed to keep the Polish economy afloat.

Meanwhile, Polish Communists have ousted another 47,300 of their comrades, it was reported in Warsaw Monday, in the second phase of a post-martial law purge that has now cost nearly 100,000 members their red cards.

Union urges end to strikes

WARSAW, July 13 (R) — Underground Solidarity leaders have called for a suspension of strikes and demonstrations until the end of July, partly to ease the way for a planned visit by the pope, according to a Solidarity leaflet released Tuesday.

The appeal, signed by fugitive leaders of the suspended free trade union in Warsaw, Gdansk, Krakow and Wroclaw, said the gesture was also to show the readiness of the underground activists to reach an understanding with the Communist rulers.

It said the signatories expected a move of conciliation from the authorities to show their will to open a dialogue. If there were no such response from the authorities the underground would be forced to resume its resistance, perhaps by staging a general strike.

The appeal, dated June 26, was made available on the day marking the start of the eighth month of martial law, an occasion previously marked by demonstrations. Two black flags were hung outside the university Tuesday morning, but there were no other obvious signs of protest in the capital.

Church and diplomatic sources here believe the government of Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski is planning to release the bulk of the about 2,500 internees held in camps and prisons throughout Poland on July 22, National Day.

Experts' study shows

U.S. ties with 3rd World hit

MANILA, July 13 (Depthnews) — U.S. President Reagan has been taken to task for pursuing a foreign policy that is damaging American relations with the Third World.

The president's preoccupation with increased military spending to safeguard U.S. national interests and security is not helping the country any in the developing world. Neither does it help the United States to view these ties solely within the context of Reagan's strong commitment to contain Soviet "adventurism" anywhere.

"Any attempt now made to improve the prospects of North-South accommodation which place primary emphasis on containment of the Soviet Union as the overriding objective of U.S. policy in the Third World will be doomed to failure."

Thus warns a study by a panel of experts at the Washington-based Overseas Development Council. Entitled "U.S. Foreign Policy and the Third World Agenda 1982," the study is the latest in the council's series of annual assessments of American policy toward developing nations.

As it is, the study notes, U.S. foreign policy is now governed by the new orthodoxy. Its proponents hold that, "the decline of American power must be reversed ... it is the power that the new administration must rebuild; it is power politics that is the name of the game of nations."

The study elaborates: According to its proponents, American power has grown dangerously weak at a time when the Soviet Union has expanded its military strength and capabilities at a steady rate. Moreover, Russia has broken the ground rules implicit in detente by attempting (through its own actions or those of its proxies) to spread its influence and involvement in various strategically important parts of the developing world.

The new orthodoxy advocates thus maintain that the main focus of U.S. foreign policy should be on restoring American military strength and combatting Soviet influence in developing countries by a variety of means. This could range from military assistance to the forging of specific bilateral economic and political relationships with the Third World. Other issues — whether economic, political or ethical — must take second place.

But this is not the case, the study insists. "It might indeed be convenient if these secondary issues could at least temporarily be given lower priority," it says.

It adds: "Economic and political relationships between the industrial and developing countries are undergoing a series of fundamental changes that will greatly strengthen the importance of the Third World and will increasingly narrow the range of policy

The announcement of the April-May purge came on the eve of the eighth month of martial law, and three days before a meeting of the party's policy-making central committee, its third since the Dec. 13 crackdown.

The Communist Party daily Tribuna Ludu, in a full-page report, had said last April that 50,000 party members were ousted in March for failure to follow the party line. Some observers said the reports could serve as an antidote to factionalism during the coming party plenum.

The paper said the ousters offer "proof of the rebuilding of the prestige, credibility and influence" of the party, and sought to bolster its case by saying that of 3,052 persons accepted for party membership between December and June 40 percent were workers.

Party members last year called for greater worker and grass roots representation in the party during the liberalization that accompanied the labor and social upheaval sparked by the independent labor movement Solidarnosc.

Since then, the Solidarity union has been suspended, its leaders interned and its activities forbidden. The party, meanwhile, has gone about cleansing its ranks of members "who violate its statutes," Tribuna Ludu reported.

The paper said of the 47,300 persons "crossed off" membership lists in April and May, 20,500 or 43.3 percent showed lack of interest, neglected duties or failed to carry out resolutions of party leaders.

It said the signatories expected a move of conciliation from the authorities to show their will to open a dialogue. If there were no such response from the authorities the underground would be forced to resume its resistance, perhaps by staging a general strike.

The appeal, dated June 26, was made available on the day marking the start of the eighth month of martial law, an occasion previously marked by demonstrations. Two black flags were hung outside the university Tuesday morning, but there were no other obvious signs of protest in the capital.

Church and diplomatic sources here believe the government of Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski is planning to release the bulk of the about 2,500 internees held in camps and prisons throughout Poland on July 22, National Day.

Choices. A realistic and effective American policy cannot continue to consider the developing countries solely in an East-West framework or to judge them as irrelevant to major U.S. interests."

The study cites a number of factors that underline the Third World's growing importance in the international arena. For one thing, the economic importance of developing countries to the United States is already considerable and increasing. These countries as a group have become a major market for U.S. exports.

Their active participation in the world economy has reached a point where, according to the World Bank, their growth rates now significantly affect economic growth in the industrial North. In fact, many competent observers in the developed countries have concluded that economic progress in the Third World is likely to be a major part of the "engine of growth" for all countries. They likened it to the rebuilding of Europe in the 1950s and the 1960s, which provided the impetus for the remarkable economic growth of the world economy in the postwar years.

In politics, developing nations have also become increasingly important to the United States. A number of Third World countries are now being viewed as influential — at present or potentially — in assuring regional stability.

The Reagan administration still persists in giving low priority to U.S. relations with developing countries, the study says. "The foreign policy still does not reflect adequate recognition of the emergence of developing countries as important participants in the international arena."

"The longer the disparity continues," it warns, "the more opportunities will be missed, the higher the costs will be to the U.S. and the greater will be the risk of permanently losing the leadership role the U.S. has played for so long in international development cooperation."

Instead of the new orthodoxy, the study suggests that the U.S. must "address its interests and objectives in the Third World per se" and not simply those American interests "vis-a-vis the Soviet Union and the Western alliance that are influenced by events in the Third World."

It cites an observation of former U.S. Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, now council president, that in a rapidly changing international setting, military power alone is inadequate to guarantee U.S. security. Thus, the urgent need for the U.S. to give serious attention to alternative foreign policy instruments in the political and economic spheres like trade, food, security and aid.

PALACE SECURITY: A formidable array of spikes, barbed wire and security "listening" devices surround Queen Elizabeth's Buckingham Palace as security measures are tightened following a report that a man had managed to break into the queen's bedroom last Friday.

British palace security failure seen

LONDON, July 13 (R) — A man who broke into Queen Elizabeth's Buckingham Palace bedroom sat on her bed dripping blood and clutching a broken glass ashtray in his hand, a British newspaper said Tuesday.

The queen was unharmed in last week's incident and the man was detained, but the case of the palace prowler who clambered up a drain pipe into the royal bedchamber has caused a security row and protection at the queen's official residence has been increased.

The Daily Express, which first broke the news of the break-in Monday, said Tuesday the queen woke to see a man in dirty T-shirt and jeans sitting on her bed with blood dripping from his hand and holding the jagged ashtray.

He lay perfectly still and spoke to him calmly for 10 minutes until, under the pretext of getting him a cigarette, she summoned a footman who detained him, the Express said.

Home Secretary (Interior Minister) William Whitelaw confirmed in parliament Monday that the break-in had taken place. But apart from admitting that there had been a "most serious failure in security arrangements" and praising the queen's bravery, he gave no details of the incident in a first floor bedroom of the palace.

Another British newspaper said Tuesday the intruder had made at least 12 previous illegal night-time visits to the palace. The mass-circulation Sun said it had interviewed the intruder's family and was told by his father he was a "royal fanatic" who would not have harmed the queen.

It said he used to leave his wife in bed with the words: "I'm going to see my girlfriend..

Leftists storm 3 hamlets

Salvador fears new offensive

SAN SALVADOR, July 13 (R) — Left-wing guerrillas have stormed three hamlets in northern El Salvador and booted their forces in the east in what military sources said could herald a fresh rebel offensive.

The sources said that the leftists Monday occupied Ojos de Agua, El Carrizal and Las Vueltas, near the border with Honduras. Concentrations of guerrillas were reported 65 kilometers east of the capital, and near the provincial capital of San Vicente, the insurgents imposed their own "curfew."

Military sources said the guerrillas banned all traffic from around the town of San Lazaro, near San Vicente and said curfew violators would be shot. The sources said guerrillas, well-equipped with light to heavy weapons, had filtered into the San Vicente area over the past few days in operations which indicated they were planning a large-scale offensive.

Last month, it took some 4,000 of El Salvador's best troops to drive the leftists from

Libya told to return Uganda rebels

LUSAKA, Zambia, July 13 (AP) — Ugandan Vice President Paul Muwanga called on Libya to return dissidents who he said were being trained by Libya to overthrow the government of President Milton Obote.

A Ugandan guerrilla organization has denied it is being trained or receiving arms from the Libyan government of Col. Muammar Qaddafi.

Malaysian minister denies murder charge

KUALA LUMPUR, July 13 (R) — Malaysia's minister for culture, youth and sports, Datuk Mokhtar Hashim, denied in the high court Tuesday that he killed a fellow politician in the run-up to general elections on April 22. If convicted, Datuk Mokhtar, 40, would face a mandatory death sentence.

He was accused with four other men of the murder of Datuk Muhammad Taha Talib, 55, speaker of the assembly in the southern state of Negri Sembilan, on April 14.

Like Datuk Mokhtar, Datuk Taha, was a member of Malaysia's dominant political party, the United Malays National Organization (UMNO). He was found shot dead outside his house in a village about 110 kilometers from Kuala Lumpur.

The other four accused — businessmen Muhammad Nordin Johar, 33, and Aziz Tumpik, 53, village headman Rahmat Sukieman, 54, and Aziz Abdullah, 65, a self-employed worker — also pleaded not guilty.

40 Afghans fight for illegal entry to Australia

SYDNEY, July 13 (AP) — Federal police handcuffed four men during a brawl at Sydney airport Tuesday after Australian immigration officials refused entry to 40 illegal Afghan refugees.

The flare-up occurred when the refugees, who had arrived earlier Tuesday with forged travel documents, were being taken to the departure lounge to be deported. Airport officials said the refugees became agitated and resisted the move.

Federal police said the brawl broke out when they attempted to keep the men under control. They wrestled four of the Afghans to the ground before handcuffing them.

Because of the incident, Singapore Airlines officials refused to allow the group onto a flight to Singapore on which they were scheduled to travel in the afternoon.

"We did not have enough security back-up which would not have been fair to the other passengers," an airline spokesman said. "We were being asked to risk the safety and convenience of passengers as well as the aircraft."

The refugees were taken to a migrant detention center. The airline expected to fly 38 of the Afghans back to Singapore and Madras, India, Wednesday morning after arranging security of one man to six refugees on the flight.

Immigration officials said a pregnant woman, who was about to deliver, and her husband would be allowed to stay in Australia until the baby was born. The three would then be deported. The woman was rushed to a hospital shortly after she got off the plane when it was feared she might have the baby early.

U.S. drops charge against Japanese

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13 (R) — The U.S. Justice Department has dropped charges against a Japanese technician arrested in connection with an alleged conspiracy to obtain IBM computer secrets. Prosecutor Joseph Rusconiello has said.

The technician, Tomioh Kimura, of the Japanese Mitsubishi electronics firm, and 13 others were arrested in California last month on various charges after a seven-month police investigation, which included setting up a bogus company. U.S. warrants were also issued for 12 business men living in Japan.

Representatives of Mitsubishi and another Japanese firm, Hitachi, were alleged in police affidavits to have conspired to obtain trade secrets from International Business Machines (IBM), the U.S. computer giant.

Kimura was arrested at San Francisco Airport on June 22 and charged with trying to export items without a license. He was later released on bail of $200,000.

Rusconiello told reporters Monday he had asked that the charges against Kimura be dropped — the first time in the case this has happened — after he had concluded the evidence against the Japanese was not sufficient to support an indictment.

The magistrate ordered that Kimura's passport and airline ticket be returned to him and that he be released from bail.

Mexicans protest Honduran action

MEXICO CITY, July 13 (AP) — About 50 Mexican leftists sat in peacefully for four hours at the Honduran Embassy in Mexico City Monday to protest alleged incursions by Honduran troops against leftist guerrillas in neighboring El Salvador, a spokesman for the group said.

The unarmed protesters seized the embassy at 11 p.m. and left at 3 p.m. Another 75 leftists demonstrated in the street outside shouting slogans against the Honduran government.

Three patrol cars and a dozen policemen on foot were deployed in the area, and spent their time redirecting traffic.

Spokesman for the group said the "action was undertaken to demand that the Honduran government withdraw its invading troops from Salvadoran territory."

"We are trying to call upon the workers, students and intellectuals to express their repudiation and condemn the violation of Salvadoran sovereignty," he said.
